A New Name - A New Era

"GOD IS GOOD! ALL THE TIME!"

This is the phrase that we often use at the Ranch to silence talking and to focus everyone's attention on whoever is going to speak or lead a prayer. What better way is there to get everyone's attention than to declare the majesty and glory of our creator?!

God is good! And if you noticed the front cover of this issue of the Circuit Rider, then you know that His goodness has propelled us into a new era, starting with small changes with profound meaning. The small changes? We have retired the Joe Belt drawing of a little boy that we used as an unofficial symbol of Texas Boys Ranch since 1986; we have launched a new logo with significant symbolism about who we are and what we strive to accomplish in our relentless endeavor to rescue children; and we have made one other change that is eleven years overdue.

In September of 2010, I received a frantic phone call from a CPS worker pleading with me to find a placement for a sibling group of five. We just happened to have a cottage that was completely empty and ready to accept children. As we visited, she eventually disclosed that three of these children were girls. I immediately began investigating the possibility of accepting girls when we were only licensed for boys. On that very day we became licensed to serve girls. Fast forward to October 2021 and as you probably noticed, we are now officially Texas Girls & Boys Ranch. I invite you to take a moment to notice the info-graph to help you fully appreciate how a little two word change to our license could result in a profound rebranding of our organization. The two words? "and girls"! What a difference that change has made. Accepting girls meant that we were able to keep siblings together. And that led to the realization that the average age of children served on our campus dropped from about age 14 to age 8. Keeping siblings together greatly improved outcomes. Allowing brothers and sisters to remain together reduced trauma symptoms associated with being removed from their homes due to abuse and neglect. God is Good! We are excited about what's coming next for Texas Girls & Boys Ranch. While we are caring for children through our various programs and equipping families to foster and adopt, we also desire to focus more resources on prevention, early intervention, and transition services.

We are thankful for everyone who has embraced our ministry of CARING. As we enter an exciting holiday season, please know that we haven't lost sight of the mission you have entrusted us with:

Sharing Jesus, Healing Hearts, Transforming Lives

Please continue to read this issue of our Circuit Rider to learn more about the small changes that will lead us into 2022 and beyond.

From the Texas Girls & Boys Ranch family of employees, volunteers, and donors, we wish you a Happy Thanksgiving and a blessed holiday season.

John Sigle
President

It is the pleasure of the Board of Directors to announce that beginning October 18, 2021, Texas Boys Ranch is accepting the proud new name of Texas Girls & Boys Ranch.

This name will carry the rich history Texas Boys Ranch has established throughout the years, incorporating the hopeful future that the Ranch purposefully encompasses, which is not only healing hearts of young boys but also young girls. The name change will also act as a strong foundation of the many services Texas Girls & Boys Ranch has to offer, from a haven in our Children's Shelter to a home for sibling groups of all sizes to remain together on our Ranch campus, to counseling services that provide Christ-centered healing, and a fostering and adoption program to empower children and their new families toward unconditional love and unwavering determination to walk together in hope for a better future.

The name enhancement comes with a new look and feel that will lend a long and powerful legacy to our donors, residents, work associates, and community. Texas Girls & Boys Ranch is at the center of caring for each child that seeks refuge through our services. They are surrounded by a Christ-centered community who will protect, nurture, and love them so they are able to see a ray of light in a viable future. The name will surround the state of Texas as if it's the protector of what is inside, the state of Texas represents the rich history and promising future as the heart in the middle is an illustration of how much everything we do is at the heart of these children and through our hope-filled efforts it is the long-term goal for them to see a ray of light at the end of their journey at Texas Girls & Boys Ranch, into a world of hope and promise.

Children's Shelter Program Director

This year at the Shelter, we have begun to see more repeat residents due to things like foster homes closing or facilities shutting down across the state. Our state is experiencing a bed shortage for children in foster care of all ages. While walking through our Shelter, I saw two old suitcases sitting at the bottom of the stairs. Seeing those particular suitcases caused a wave of grief to wash over me. I knew these girls were coming back to the shelter, I had accepted the placement request. But there those suitcases were. One black, probably from the 90's. Another embroidered and probably just as old. Even though they were clearly used, they still worked! I remembered, we had packed those exact suitcases up just a few months before with such joy! These girls were going to a "forever home." I recalled the prayers we spoke over the girls as they left us and headed off. I had hoped they would stay in touch. Then came the placement call and the returning suitcases.

As I saw those suitcases sitting there, they represented so much to me. At first, my eyes filled with tears and grief. I was disappointed for them, and my heart ached that they had to return here. The Shelter is an incredible place, but it is only meant to be temporary. A return visit meant these girls still did not have a "home" after all these years. I spent some time praying for these girls and hoping that we could help them while they were with us again. Like a light switch I could feel my perspective changing! I knew this was not the time for grief, but for gratitude. Gratitude for the Shelter being open and willing to take these girls back again. Gratitude for the open beds that could house the girls together. Gratitude for the church that did a drive to donate those old suitcases. Gratitude for the Shelter staff that welcomed the girls with open arms and a shoulder to cry on. Gratitude for the opportunity to serve these girls again.

Thank you for your continued support of the Children's Shelter and all our ministries at Texas Girls & Boys Ranch. We could not be here to serve all our children, including those who come back to us sometimes, without the generous support of our donors and community.

Education is a key element in our efforts to transform the lives of the children we serve. We commit a great deal of time and energy to ensuring that the children of Texas Girls & Boys Ranch are supported throughout their stay with us. One of the most important expressions of our love for these children is when we can provide space for them to grow and flourish in their academic efforts. Very few feelings compare to watching a child work through the challenges of school and find success! Seeing the joy in their eyes and the pride on their face makes all the work worth it!

ANGELA SKORICK

Foster Care & Adoption Program Director
askorick@txgbr.org

Our foster care and adoption program is growing and flourishing! We have more families than we have ever had before. More and more people are becoming aware of the variety of services that we offer. Couples are being referred to us from their friends or from our current foster parents. Couples also like that we are a faith-based agency and we share values similar to theirs. We take children from birth to 17 years old, but a majority of the children in our care are under age 5. We are very excited about our new name change because it will reflect what we have been doing for years now. If you have any questions about our program, please give us a call! Or email Kaylee Newbold at knewbold@txgbr.org.

Football, homecoming, parades and harvest festivals. Rarely are the weekends without an activity or event for the kids. The fun-filled weekends of Fall are part of what helps our kids be the kids they have not been able to be. Too often, the children entrusted to us have worried for too long about grown-up things: where they are going to spend the night, what is available to eat, how they will find food, and/or if they are safe. But, sit with them in the stands at football game, help them make a mum for homecoming, or help them grab up handfuls of candy at a parade, and you will see the worry is gone and a healing sense of joy is spread all over their faces. At the Ranch, Fall can be a time of healing for kids and staff alike! Thank you for helping us make this possible!

season of thankfulness

In this season of thankfulness, one thing that comes to mind for us at Texas Girls & Boys Ranch, which is always highest on our list of things to be thankful for, is YOU, our partners in the important work we do. After all, as we often say, we couldn't do what we do for the precious kids we serve without your help.

We are thankful for people who want to get physically involved, who volunteer to tutor or throw a birthday party at one of the cottages or the Children's Shelter. Birthdays mean so much to our little ones. Or volunteers who work at the horse barn or at the commissary sorting food and clothing. Whatever the volunteer position- we just couldn't make it without you. The difference you make in the kids' lives is immeasurable.

We are also thankful for every penny that flows into TGBR to help precious and often hurting children. Whether it is someone on a fixed income giving what little they can or a pillar of our community who sees the importance of the work we are doing and bestows a large gift, we feel blessed beyond measure by each and every one.

Because of you, Abby was able to graduate high school.

Something she may not have been able to do without your help. You helped Joey not have to worry about where his next meal was going to come from and be able just to focus on being a kid. You helped Elizabeth finally be able to understand fractions. You have helped so many deserving kids in more ways than we could possibly count, and we are very grateful.

As we have said before, we wish our services were not needed, but that is, unfortunately, not the case.

MORE KIDS ARE NEEDING HELP TODAY THAN WE HAVE EVER SEEN.

Something else that we are thankful for, however, is that also because of you, we are growing and expanding our ability to help more girls and boys than ever before.

We sincerely hope that you will prayerfully consider, not just making a commitment yourself, but also helping to spread the word about the work we are doing. As we grow, we also need to grow the number of partners who will help support the efforts being made in the lives of abused and neglected children. We need more volunteers and more funding now than at any time in our history.

Just as you helped Alyssa go to church camp for the first time and eventually change her attitude about going to church, you can help make a positive impact in the lives of hundreds of children every year with your support.

Won't you help give disadvantaged children a life for which they can feel thankful?

Please use the provided card and envelope to send in your donation today, and consider making it a recurring donation, if you will, as the work we are doing is ongoing.

From everyone at Texas Girls & Boys Ranch, we thank you for all you do from the bottom of our hearts!

President

It's Still Us

In my job I spend a lot of my time speaking to individuals and groups about who we are and what we do. I continue to address misconceptions and misunderstandings about our organization. No, we are not affiliated with other Boys Ranches, no, we do not just serve boys, no, the children we serve are not bad kids- they have just had bad things happen to them.

In the midst of change, sometimes things can get confusing. Take for instance our name change from Texas Boys Ranch to Texas Girls & Boys Ranch. There may be some concern over how the name change will effect what we do, so please let me take a moment to speak to you, our donors and friends. By changing the name to Texas Girls & Boys Ranch we are now better able to reflect who we are and what we have already been doing. We have been serving girls for over eleven years now in an effort to keep sibling groups together. How sad it was during the days when brothers and sisters had to be separated simply because we weren't licensed to care for girls. Hadn't they been through enough already? By changing our name we are more adequately portraying, not only who we are, but also who we serve. We will continue to work with and love each and every child who is placed in our care. The same as we have always done. Our prayer is that this small change will help us as we move forward and follow God's calling to love and minister to his little children.

By changing our name we are more adequately portraying, not only who we are, but also who we serve. We will continue to work with and love each and every child who is placed in our care. The same as we have always done.

As we continue helping hurting children the same as ever before, we still need your support, as much as ever before. We are helping more children than ever, and without YOU we won't be able continue our mission to "Share Jesus, Heal Hearts, Transform Lives". Please do what you can whenever you can.

MICHAEL NUDELMAN
 Church Relations Officer
 mnudelman@txgbr.org

As we approach this season of Thanksgiving I want to say, Thank You, to all the churches that have participated in our Give Me Five campaign this year. We have another fifth Sunday coming up at the end of October, as well as an opportunity for you to contribute to our Christmas Love Offering, which is the second Sunday of December.

Many churches have helped out this year with drives for food, back-to-school items, as well as other necessities for the children. There have been church groups who have thrown birthday parties and helped with chores, just to name a couple of things. Our brothers and sisters in Christ truly do make an impact on the work we do together and we are very grateful.

Special collections, drives, volunteer work, and the like, go a long way in helping out our kiddos at Texas Girls & Boys Ranch. Church support is crucial in helping to make a difference in the kids' lives. If your church would like to get involved please contact me at 806-778-4328 or mnudelman@txgbr.org

Thank you again for being part of our mission of Sharing Jesus, Healing Hearts, Transforming Lives.

God Bless

OPPORTUNITIES

Once again, it is the season of change. Fall is here and the weather is changing, becoming cooler- the fields going from full of cotton to empty after the harvest.

This time last year we were in a different and unexpected season of change as we were coming off major COVID mandates. This year, once again, we are in a different- although not so unexpected- season of change with our new name of Texas Girls & Boys Ranch and the rebranding that comes with that name change.

However, one thing has stayed consistent through all the change...our volunteer program. We have been blessed with our regular commissary volunteers as well as new ones who have come along with the start of the school year to help with homework, and others as well. But we still could use lots of help if you feel called to make a difference. Please see below or check our website txgbr.org for current volunteer opportunities.

Fire Pits and Planned Gifts

With fall in the air, there's a new kind of energy around my house. You see, this is fire pit season, when the evenings come early and the sweaters appear from storage trunks, and the kids beg to sit around the fire in the cool nights and roast marshmallows. OK, I will admit to eating a s'more now and then, too!

We're also reminded that the season of giving thanks and giving gifts is just around the corner. I begin thinking more about the presents I want to give to the people I care about and start planning my giving in earnest. Of course, that includes looking for bargains so my gift-giving can go farther. My wife is even better than I am at this, and I'm thankful she enjoys and is so good at the process of gift-shopping and gift-giving.

When I was a child, I thought mostly about the receiving. While I do more giving now as an adult and parent, I still enjoy getting a little something now and then. It lets me know that somebody was thinking about me, that I'm appreciated. And that's nice no matter how old we are.

What would you think about a scenario in which you could give a gift once, and then receive many gifts back as a result? Perhaps even a lifetime of receiving gifts? As it happens, that's just the kind of thing we help people do here at Texas Boys Ranch Foundation!

An arrangement like this is often very appealing to many of our friends who, shall we say, have flipped their fair share of calendars! In fact, depending on the needs and wants of the individual, there are several different ways that a person can make a gift to support the ministry, and receive regular, dependable payments in return.

Each time I personally sign one of those regular checks to a friend who has made a gift like this to the Foundation, I think of that person with fondness and say a prayer of thanks for their generosity, for their commitment to the Kingdom, and for their continued well-being. Can I add your name to that prayer list?

As we are entering into this new season of giving thanks and planning gifts, please keep in mind the welfare of the children we serve. Perhaps you would like to give a gift this year, experience the blessing of knowing you've made a significant impact, and enjoy a return of that gift for many years to come.

You can reach Eric at the Texas Boys Ranch Foundation office at ecreel@tbrfoundation.org, or by phone at 806-749-1103, to talk about how you can give a gift and receive an income for life in return. Or visit www.tbrfoundation.org for more information on options for wise giving.

CHECK OUT THE NEW TEXAS GIRLS & BOYS RANCH WEBSITE!
